LIVING CULTURE PROGRAMS

Cultural Infusion's Living Culture Program works to promote cultural heritage practices in communities across the planet, supporting their continued life through education, intergenerational transmission and public presence. This harnesses the cultural richness of the community to provide its own members with a sense of identity and belonging, promoting social cohesion, building resilience and helping to maintain the necessary conditions to drive sustainability to the community and to society as a whole.

The Living Culture Program transforms communities through cultural resilience and by providing local avenues for economic development within the Arts. In doing so, less developed communities are given the practical and financial means to extend the lifespan on intangible heritage practices, which might otherwise face significant threat from the homogenising forces of globalisation. These communities are also enriched with opportunities for industry and employment that do not rely on global commodity chains or the exploitation of primary- and secondary-sector industries.

TANZANIA

Living Culture Tanzania

The creative and cultural industries in Tanzania are also on the rise. According to a 2015 United Nations Conference on Trade and Development report, creative goods & services exports from Tanzania have risen from US$2.46 million in 2003, to US$69.92 million in 2012. Export regions have also diversified during that period, extending beyond Africa to Asia, America and Europe. Yet government funding towards these industries is still lacking substantially. The relationships between culture, employment and education, if supported, can help Tanzania's young people secure jobs and survive in the workforce. The Living Culture Program to help address this gap through the private sector.

ZANZIBAR

Living Culture Zanzibar

Our Local Development Coordinator Natalie Denmeade has done extensive research on Zanzibar as the heart of the ancient Silk Road, and her findings have been imparted to the performance team so that they may brainstorm ideas on how to tell the rich story of Zanzibar through music and dance. Storytelling is important to the primarily oral literary culture of Tanzania, also reflected in the nation's growing film industry which has been affectionately dubbed "Swahiliwood"

PAKISTAN

Living Culture Pakistan

Pakistan has experienced significant liberalisation in the past decade which has helped increase its standing on the international stage, and has encouraged the nation to focus on improving gender equality and the integration of women as productive members of its workforce. Our efforts have largely focused on complementing the country's increased commitment to women's empowerment. The program also resonates with Pakistan's ongoing discourse of cultivating its "soft image".
